Job Title: Contract Medical Research Support Analyst

Job Description: HAYES, Inc., a leading Health Technology Assessment (HTA) company, is seeking contract medical research writers/analysts to help support the work of HTAs. The successful individuals will have a strong scientific background, graduate level training (M.S. or PhD), knowledge of statistical methods, outstanding writing skills, ability to synthesize complex information, and a critical mind. A background in clinical medicine, health sciences, and/or epidemiology would be an advantage but candidates from neuroscience, biology, biostatistics and other sciences are also encouraged. This contract position offers the opportunity to build skills in the writing of HTAs and systematic reviews, it offers flexible working hours and the ability to work from home; geographic location within the US is not an issue. Qualified individuals are encouraged to submit a curriculum vitae with cover letter at https://home.eease.adp.com/recruit/?id=15375721